

ABSTRACT

A system may include an integrated heat spreader that includes a portion of solder material and a thermal conductor, wherein a voidless interface exists between the solder material and a first side of the thermal conductor.